

Economic Impact

Serving as the gateway to Music City, BNA is an engine of enormous economic activity for the region.

To assess and analyze the economic impact of Middle Tennessee's two airports—BNA and John C. Tune—the research firm Martin Associates quantified job creation, personal income growth, tax collections and other factors for the year 2019. The results were impressive.

Total Economic Impact

BNA produced more than $8.1 billion in total economic impact in 2019—more than doubling the total economic impact reported in the 2012 study.

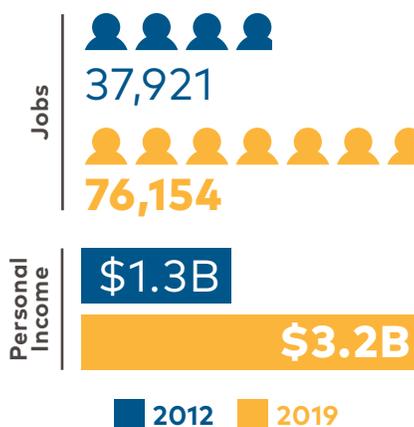

Impact Includes:

- Revenue generated by on-airport jobs
- Revenue generated by airport-related businesses
- Spending by on-airport and airport-related businesses
- Business revenue and local purchases of visitor industry

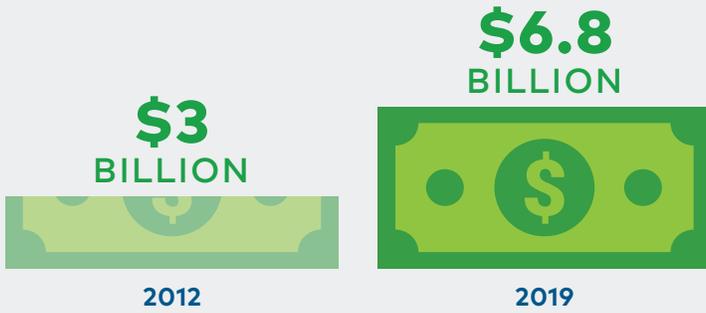

Job Creation & Personal Income

BNA generates significant employment in Middle Tennessee due to direct, indirect and induced impacts at the airport, in local businesses, and the visitors industry. Aviation activity at BNA supported more than 76,000 Tennessee jobs in 2019, an increase of nearly 102% over the last six years, and a vital contribution to the region's booming economy.

Total Employment Impact includes:

- On-airport jobs
- Jobs created to support operation of the airport
- Jobs created from spending by on-airport and airport support employees
- Jobs created by businesses purchasing local goods and services
- Jobs created in the local visitor industry

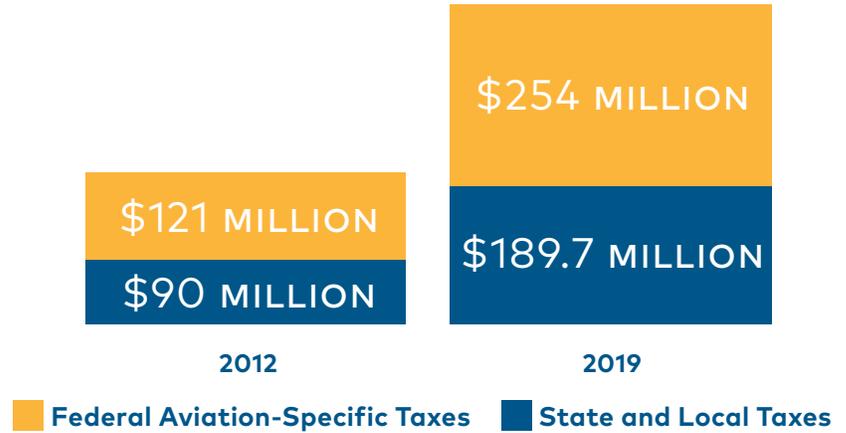

Business Revenue Generated

Aviation activity at BNA generated $6.8 billion of business revenue to firms providing goods and services at the airport and to the local visitor industry.

Tax Revenue Generated

BNA operates with no local taxes. However, activity generated by and through BNA produces major tax revenue for city, state and federal coffers. In 2019 alone that meant $189.7 million in state and local taxes and $254 million in federal aviation-specific taxes.

2012-2019 Record-Breaking Passenger Growth

In 2019, 18,273,434 passengers traveled through BNA, an increase of 14.2% or more than 2.2 million passengers over 2018, setting a new, all-time passenger record for the seventh consecutive calendar year.

IN 2019, 4.8 MILLION VISITORS ARRIVING THROUGH BNA SPENT $3.3 BILLION IN THE GREATER NASHVILLE AREA for food, lodging, entertainment, retail, transportation services, and more.
